Course Description

Are you a new detective or a patrol officer wanting to expand your career by going into investigations?

This 3 day seminar is designed to learn the basics of criminal investigative responsibilities, and the associated duties involved. Topics will include; assessing and evaluating various crime scenes, understanding the necessary principles involved with investigating natural, suicide, and undetermined deaths. Participants will demonstrate the ability to write and prepare affidavits for search warrants. You will learn the importance of collecting/using cell phone and social media data for investigative purposes. Segments concerning 4th amendment, legal rights issues, liability, and "qualified immunity", courtroom demeanor, and preparation for testifying will be discussed. This course is designed to enhance the skillset, and confidence level of the Investigator and their ability to conclude, and successfully prosecute if necessary, the criminal cases they are responsible for investigating.
